New Elvis Song Discovered?

Wouldn't we all just love to hear a new song by Elvis that no-one had heard before and had lain undiscovered for many years? Well, a news story came out in the last week that this is indeed what had happened and that a new song had been discovered. The story...

Newschannel 3's I-Team say they have uncovered a recording that could change music history. Now, a new, never before heard recording, potentially a demo track, has surfaced that could be Elvis. The song is called 'Living to Love You.' According to Battle Creek attorney Violet Hinton, that recording has Elvis Presley singing. She says the song comes from songwriter Jimmie Crane and producer Albert Leigh, recorded in 1976, the year before Elvis died.

The recording had supposedly turned up in an attic of the wife of a songwriter, Albert Leigh, who had passed away, and was discovered by her sons. One of those sons lives in Battle Creek and brought the recording he believed to be Elvis to Hinton along with a table full of documents. "All the tapes, all the contracts, all the songs written by Jimmie Crane, copyrights," said Hinton.

Although forensic audio analysis has been carried out by an expert in the field which appear to point to the song being sung by Elvis Presley, Elvis fans in the world are very sceptical after hearing a few seconds of the recording, although if truth be told what little has been released thus far makes it rather difficult.

The Elvis fans worldwide who consider themselves experts themselves appear to be resigned to the fact that it is unfortunately a hoax but it certainly does begin to get us all thinking about the 'what if' scenarios, hoping and praying that yes, one day we would hear more Elvis songs which have so far remained hidden.

I do seem to recall that when Elvis died, a Music industry executive said that there were enough unreleased songs to keep publishing for a number of years, I wonder what happened to all those...

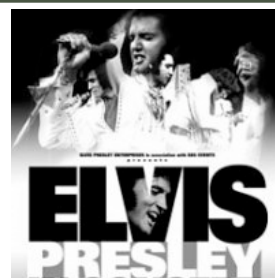

Graceland and Sony Music Entertainment did not respond to the speculation however, which would appear to indicate that there is no foundation to it, however you never know...

Elvis In Concert - Glasgow SECC Sunday 11th March 2012

The concert which re-unites Elvis' former bandmates live on stage with a video-projected Elvis returns to Europe and Glasgow once again in 2012. If you have not seen this before it is well worth a trip. Elvis-Aberdeen is therefore organising a trip down and back on the Sunday by coach, and with the cost of the ticket for the show it should be around £55-£60. As tickets are selling fast, please advise the club by 7th December at the latest if you wish to go. The club will then block book the tickets shortly thereafter. Don't delay contact us today.

Holburn Bar New Venue from January 2011 !

I hope everyone now knows that from January 2012, Elvis-Aberdeen will be relocating to the upstairs function room, at The Holburn Bar, at 225 Holburn Street Aberdeen. The Bar is centrally located and has a nicely laid out function room which we hope all the members will be happy with. The room is booked up for this year, so the first Elvis night at the Holburn Bar will be on Friday 6th January.

We would like to stress to members that there will be a fee charged to the club for the function room if the bar takings are below a certain level, so we need to try and encourage as many people to attend as possible. The future of the club depends on numbers attending, so this cannot be stressed enough. The club desperately needs to keep attendances up in order to maintain the club in it's current format.

Please support the club by attending as many Elvis nights at our new location as possible.

Elvis Mural in Milan

Spotted in Milan's trendy Navigli neighborhood near the 4th-century church Chiesa di San Lorenzo Maggiore ("Basilica of Saint Lawrence"). A large mural of Elvis Presley, called "Elvis, Elvis" which was painted by American Pop Surrealism artist Ron English and was inspired by Andy Warhol's "Double Elvis."

Now if anyone has some spray paint, I am sure some of the buildings in Aberdeen could be greatly improved by the addition of an Elvis Mural such as this. Whilst not condoning graffiti, I am sure you will all agree with the sentiment.

Elvis' 55 Cadillac Sold

The 1955 Cadillac Series 75 Fleetwood limousine that Elvis Presley used to transport his band to shows all over the Southern United States went up for auction at Bonham's Classic California sale on November 12th. It was sold for $172,000, including the Buyer's Premium. Pre sale estimates were $100-$150,000.

From the catalogue: This well documented car was purchased by the King in January of 1956 and immediately repainted Black. He may have died a very rich man, but in '56 Elvis still needed his father to co-sign on the car. Unlike many older Cadillacs that head to auction with questionable Elvis ties, this Limo is a well
